Appraisal and Line Management Policy

1 Introduction

- 1.1 It is the policy of the Livewell Southwest (LSW) that all staff will take part in the staff appraisal process, and receive regular line management. Clinical staff may also be required to participate in Practice Supervision (See Practice Supervision Policy) and Caseload Discussion and Review Guidance.
- 1.2 Staff appraisal is seen as a key component of good management practice, and research evidence shows that regular appraisal has a direct and positive impact on both organisational performance and people who use our services. The appraisal process aims to strike a balance between identifying achievements, reviewing competence and performance, agreeing objectives, and identifying any training and development needs.
- 1.3 At the end of the process staff will have set objectives and identified any development needs. LSW will ensure that all staff have access to the appropriate training and development opportunities to enable them to meet the core competencies for their post, and any objectives and / or development needs as set out in their appraisal.
- 1.4 LSW also recognises the importance of effective line management of all staff, including those who are managers themselves. Regular line management should result in better communication, clearer priorities and objectives, improved performance and motivation, and early warning of any problems staff and managers are encountering.
- 1.5 Appraiser is the Line Manager and Appraisee is the employee.

2 Purpose

- 2.1 The purpose of this document is to advise all employees of their responsibilities in relation to staff appraisal and line management, and to provide detailed guidance for staff and managers on the operation of the process and the action required to meet the requirements.
- 2.2 LSW has separate policies for Performance Management, Practice Supervision and Caseload Discussion and Review Guidance which should be read in conjunction with this policy.
- 2.3 Please note the appraisal documentation forms are now provided as a separate document rather than an appendix to this document.
- 2.4 The potential benefits of this process include the following:
  - Better communication between managers and staff.
  - Greater clarity of objectives and priorities.
  - Improved performance.

- Improved motivation.
- Early warning of any actual or potential problems.
- Support tailored to the individual's needs.
- Better relationships arising from constructive feedback.
- Better use of individual skills and experience.
- Better monitoring of individual workload and support mechanisms.
- Time for reflection on the role by postholder and manager.

- Producing regular reports on training needs and themes for managers.

5 Principles of the appraisal and line management process

5.1 All staff with substantive contracts including fixed term contracts will participate in this appraisal and line management process, including an annual appraisal meeting. All staff as above should have an annual appraisal and regular agreed line management unless there are exceptional circumstances such as extended periods of leave, service delivery pressures or staff sickness.

5.2 This process and individual objectives should be aligned to meet the Organisations aims of being:

- Recognised employee led organisation.
- Sustainable, successful and admired.
- Providing seamless system leadership.
- Based around local people and communities.
- Experience exceeds expectation.

- 5.3 Individual objectives set should also reflect the 6C's of Care, Compassion, Communication, Courage, Commitment and Competence (NHS England, 2012).
- 5.4 All new staff following their induction should start to work on their PDN after four weeks. This PDN must be completed within three months. This will identify development needs including any mandatory training. This will facilitate them to pass through the foundation gateway. They should also receive regular line management to prepare them for an appraisal after 12 months in post.
- 5.5 Some staff groups e.g. Dentists, Doctors and Adult Social Care have a different process but still need to participate in an annual appraisal.
- 5.6 It is important that the ongoing line management and annual appraisal meetings should be a positive, constructive and motivational experience. Line management meetings will normally be carried out on a one-to-one basis by the employee's direct line manager – the frequency should ideally be mutually agreed, but should not exceed 12 weeks; in addition there will be an annual appraisal.
- 5.7 It would be difficult for any full WTE appraiser to supervise more than 10 appraisees, given the amount of time required to monitor their performance and support their development. When determining the number of employees to be appraised the appraisers should take in account their own WTE to reflect numbers to be appraised. Where this occurs, it is recommended that the appraiser discuss this with their own line manager to consider whether the team could be restructured, or some of the appraisals delegated. Where appraisals are delegated, then suitable guidance and training must be provided.
- 5.8 Prior to undertaking appraisals, line management and practice supervision, all managers/appraisers will participate in appropriate training to fulfil this role.
- 5.9 Appraisers will provide feedback to staff on their performance through regular line management throughout the year, and therefore there should be 'no surprises' at the appraisal meeting. If any problems have been identified with the appraisee's work or development during the year, these should be addressed at the time they arise, and not left until the appraisal meeting. Where issues of poor performance are identified, these should be dealt with separately using LSW's Performance Management Policy.
- 5.10 Appraisees should have confidence that the outcome of the appraisal meeting will be shared only with colleagues who have a legitimate need to know, appraisees to be notified accordingly.

- 5.11 The appraisal and line management process will be conducted in accordance with good employment practice in terms of ensuring equality of opportunity and management of diversity.
- 5.12 Locality Managers will be monitoring whether appraisals are up to date. In addition to central reporting, appraisers may also keep the relevant Locality Manager informed of progress using a template (see Appendix B as an example).

6 Who should be involved in the appraisal and line management process?

- 6.1 Appraisal and line management meetings will be carried out on a one-to-one basis normally by the employee's direct line manager. It is important that the appraisal process should feel supportive to the appraisee, and not intimidating.
- 6.2 In some cases, it may be appropriate for individuals other than the employee's direct line manager to be involved in the process at some stage. For example:
- The employee may have more than one line manager/appraiser due to having a split post or working across partner organisations.
  - The employee may be in a rotational post.
  - The team may be too large for one senior individual to undertake all the appraisals personally, in which case other senior colleagues can act as appraisers by local agreement.
  - The line manager may be from a different profession, in which case it is essential that colleagues either from different speciality, professional practice are involved. A peer review process would also enable competencies to be assessed from a professional or clinical perspective.
  - The employee may have spent all or part of the previous year undertaking a project or secondment in another area.
- 6.3 In such cases, an agreement should be reached after commencement in their role, and well in advance of the appraisal date as to who will be responsible for the ongoing line management and appraisal. If the appraisee is agreeable, then a joint appraisal meeting could be held with two appraisers. Alternatively, separate pre-meetings could be held, and the appraisal meeting could be used to summarise and pull the outcomes of the discussions together.

7 Objectives of the appraisal and line management meetings

7.1 The appraisal meeting will have the following main objectives:

- To review and update the employee's Job Description / core competencies.
- To assess competence in the role and prepare for revalidation / professional re-registration – for some staff it could be that appraisal should be immediately before re-registration to aid preparation.

- To discuss aspirations, reflect on the past year and acknowledge sound performance. Any performance issues being addressed should be briefly recorded but managed under the Performance Management Policy.
- To agree development needs based on the above.
- To review the employee's performance against any other agreed objectives, and to set objectives for the next 12 months.
- To set objectives for the next 12 months in the context of any relevant team/ Locality / Organisational objectives.
- To discuss health and wellbeing but any issues raised should be addressed through appropriate route.
- To discuss other related issues such as secondary employment (Working Time Regulations Policy) and conflicts of interest (Refer to Acceptance of Gifts / Hospitality Policy and Declarations of Interest Policy) which might impact on job performance and individual wellbeing

7.2 The objectives of line management meetings are as follows:

- To discuss any changes to the responsibilities listed in the job description, or other aspects of the job role.
- To review individual workload, performance and professional development.
- To provide support, coaching and guidance.
- To offer feedback to the staff member about their performance.
- To discuss strengths and achievements as well as concerns, or perceived gaps in knowledge or skills.
- To assess competence in the role and prepare for revalidation / professional re-registration.
- To agree, review and evaluate goals and action plans.
- To follow up any issues discussed at the annual appraisal meeting.
- To discuss any issues relating to the team that cannot appropriately be discussed at team meetings.
- To exchange information relating to individual practice and developments within the Team, Locality and Organisation.
- To discuss any other concerns and ask questions.
- To review individual attendance and any absences from the workplace.

8 Appraisal Meetings – Guidance

8.1 Introduction

- 8.1.1 The annual appraisal meeting offers protected time for each member of staff to meet with their appraiser to discuss their achievements and progress, and agree ways to develop their knowledge and skills and any previously agreed objectives.

- 8.1.2 The meeting should allow for an open discussion about performance, achievements, and development needs, so that the appraisee is equipped to fulfil the role expected of them.
- 8.1.3 The appraiser will initiate the process each year by contacting the appraisee to agree a date, time and suitable venue (where you will not be disturbed by calls or visitors) for the appraisal meeting.
- 8.1.4 As a general guide, you should allow about two hours for the meeting, although you may not use all of this time. It will depend on the individual appraisee, how they are getting on, and the nature of the job. This time must be ring-fenced.
- 8.1.5 Once you have set a date for the meeting, make sure you keep to it. Changing the agreed date will undermine the process.
- 8.1.6 Some roles within LSW will use competencies which are specific to the role. To develop competencies, please refer to the Competency Guidance and Template document on the document library.

8.2 Preparation

- 8.2.1 Appraiser and appraisee should both prepare for the meeting by reviewing the current job description, any LSW competencies specific to their role, personal development plan, and any paperwork from the last appraisal meeting.
- 8.2.2 Good preparation is very important and the following will be needed:
- Adequate notice and protected time to prepare (appraisal preparation should be done in work time).
  - A copy of any competencies relevant to the role.
  - Evidence of revalidation / professional re-registration work.
  - A copy of the relevant job description.
  - A copy of the paperwork from the last appraisal (if available).
  - The appraisal paperwork (available as a separate document).
  - The portfolio / evidence the employee has been collecting all year to demonstrate application of the knowledge and skills.
  - Evidence of issues raised in previous 12 months and any action taken.
- 8.2.3 If the appraisee has any problems accessing or completing the paperwork, help and advice should be offered. The paperwork has been designed to meet the needs of the majority of staff. Amended paperwork can be agreed to suit particular staff groups in discussion with the Human Resources team.
- 8.2.4 Prepare by looking at the areas covered by the appraisal paperwork and (for the appraisee) pulling together the evidence that has been collected over the past 12 months to answer the questions within the paperwork and questions regarding competence and professional re-registration where appropriate. This will help you both focus on areas that are going well and help to identify any areas for improvement - make sure you have specific examples.

8.3 The Appraisal Meeting

- 8.3.1 The appraiser and the appraisee then meet to review the application of knowledge and skills as identified, produce a development plan, and discuss the previous year's performance.
- 8.3.2 During the meeting, both parties will need to use good communication skills such as active listening and asking open questions so as both parties feel involved. The paperwork should support the discussion.
- 8.3.3 The discussion should focus on a fair and accurate summary of work performance, achievements and development over the review period; provide a basis for planning development for the coming year. It should consider how competence has been achieved and evidenced, and record development needs and opportunities in relation to performance.
- 8.3.4 When reviewing individual performance, the discussion should focus on how the appraisee has demonstrated and maintained competence over the year and addressed development needs and opportunities. It is best to keep focussed on actual examples of work in order to enable a more constructive discussion. The appraiser may offer constructive feedback, backed up with specific facts and examples.
- 8.3.5 The manager should ensure that the appraisee is aware of any organisational, locality or team objectives relevant to their work which would influence any personal objectives set at the appraisal.
- 8.3.6 During the meeting, the learning and development needs to become competent and maintain competence for the post should be discussed, as well as including any statutory and mandatory training. Development activities need to be considered in the light of organisational and service priorities and therefore should be linked to the appraisee's objectives. It should be borne in mind that, whilst making every effort to support training and development activities, LSW may not always be able to meet individual interests and career aspirations.
- 8.3.7 Bear in mind, that formal training and education courses are not the only options for development. There are many others, such as coaching, mentoring and job shadowing, all of which can develop an individual's skills and knowledge.
- 8.3.8 By the end of the meeting, there should be agreement on:
- The level of competence.
  - Any development needs for the coming year.
  - Progress made towards any previously agreed objectives.
  - Objectives for the next 12 months.
  - Level of competence for the role, evidence of competence and preparation for revalidation / professional re-registering.
- 8.3.9 Conclude the meeting by summarising what has been agreed and setting a review date (next line management meeting) for approximately 2-3 months (or as agreed within the service area).

8.4 After the meeting

8.4.1 The appraisal paperwork will be jointly completed and signed by both appraiser and appraisee within four weeks of the appraisal meeting. Both parties will retain a copy for use during the year at line management and practice supervision meetings, and at the next appraisal meeting. The appraiser and appraisee should ensure they follow up any agreed action points.

8.4.2 If agreement cannot be reached please see section 11.2.

8.4.3 A copy of the appraisal is to be entered onto ESR by the appraiser / line manager or sent to Professional Training and Development to enter. This will ensure team and locality objectives are aligned.

8.4.4 A copy of the Development Plan must be sent to Professional Training and Development, Top Floor Beauchamp Centre.

9 Preceptorship Guidance

During a preceptorship period, the newly registered staff member will usually utilise and follow the Preceptorship guidance. Therefore, this would replace the standard appraisal and line management process during the first year of professional registration.

9.1 What Preceptorship is:-

- Preceptorship is a process of support and tailored development activities to ease the transitional experience for newly registered nursing and allied health and social care staff. It is also a process deemed beneficial to newly qualified Assistant Practitioners as they embark on a new role.
- The purpose of preceptorship is to help the new member of staff to adjust to their new role and environment, whilst ensuring that required learning is achieved (Preceptorship Framework, DH 2009).
- Although preceptorship is a framework that has been designed to specifically support the transition of new staff, the skills required to support transition are not exclusive; mentorship; coaching; facilitation, and supervision skills being totally transferable.

9.2 Management guidance

- Preceptor and preceptee meet within the first week to complete the Preceptorship Agreement to record the agreed frequency and duration of review meetings.
- It is expected for the preceptor and preceptee to meet regularly (minimum of monthly) to review progress for a minimum of 30 minutes.
- Within the first week, the Learning Contract should be commenced to establish preceptees existing knowledge, and learning needs, in line with job description and the specific skills required to work safely and effectively.

- Records should be kept of all meetings by both preceptor and preceptee using the meeting record (see Appendix D within the Preceptorship Guidance Policy). In line with NMC revalidation and HCPC Continuing Professional development, the reflection templates (see appendix E within the Preceptorship Guidance Policy) may be a useful tool/adjunct for both Preceptors and Preceptees.

For further information with regards to Preceptorship, please refer to the Preceptorship guidance policy.

10 Line Management - Guidance

- Before undertaking line management, managers must be familiar with this policy and undertake training if required.
- It is recommended that each member of staff should meet with their designated line manager at least once every 3 months for line management.
- As part of their own professional development, managers need to review their competence in terms of this role, and be open to feedback from others including their own team as to their management style.
- Line management should be a structured and consistent process involving regular meetings between the manager and each team member.
- The meetings should be held in a suitable location where privacy can be assured. Arrangements should be made to avoid interruptions.
- The frequency of such meetings will depend on a number of factors, including the needs of the department and staff group, the nature of the work, the pace of change within that area of work, and how experienced the employee is. In general, a meeting at least every 12 weeks is recommended, Managers who meet with their staff more frequently than this may wish to review the frequency of meetings and the documentation. In general, if more frequent meetings are appropriate, then the level of documentation per meeting could be lighter with some issues reviewed every 12 weeks.
- If extra support and line management is needed (e.g. more frequent meetings), then this can be agreed between the line manager and the member of staff.
- Line management should be a confidential activity with clear boundaries. The only exceptions are if an unsafe, unethical or illegal practice issue is identified where the appropriate procedures have not been followed, then advice would be sought from an appropriate manager, professional lead or senior supervisor.
- The Record of Line Management (Appendix A) details the issues to be discussed during the meeting.

- A written record of the meeting will be kept, and this will be signed by both parties. The original will be kept by the line manager in the employee's personal file, and the employee will also have a copy.
- Line management is therefore an opportunity to flag up any changes which may be required in performance or behaviour. The manager should monitor progress and review the situation at the next meeting to ensure the change has taken place.

11 Collection of evidence for the appraisal (this could also be discussed within line management)

11.1 All staff are required to collect evidence of competence throughout the year. There are examples of portfolio evidence for those requiring re-registering of their professional qualification. Examples of possible evidence are as follows:

- Certificates – ideally with evidence of how the learning has been applied.
- Learning logs – what you learned and how you are using your learning in your work.
- Your own written account of things you have done, which may include how you did it, what you achieved, what you learned, and/or how you would do it better next time e.g. a meeting you attend and what you have contributed. Sometimes called “reflective practice”.
- Anything relevant from your personal / professional portfolio e.g. reflective log, description of how you have changed your practice.
- Your notes from meetings with a coach, mentor, tutor, clinical supervisor, and peer review sessions etc.
- Feedback from clients/patients/customers e.g. thank you letters.
- Results of questionnaires/surveys.
- Feedback from colleagues/manager/staff (could be based on their observation of your work, teaching, giving a presentation, etc).
- Copies of e-mails or other paperwork indicating achievement of tasks.
- Minutes of meetings you attend. May include evidence about how the team has developed the service. May include record of team achievements in last 12 months. May show your contribution and suggestions.
- Witness statement/feedback from work based assessor/ trainer.
- Results of any audits or evaluations of your work.
- Reports from external assessments of your work area e.g. Healthcare Commission, Investors in People.
- Report on how you have dealt with complaints or significant incidents i.e. what happened and what you have done to reduce risks and improve the service.
- Reading.
- Participation in research, mentoring, professional organisations.
- Photos (if appropriate).

It is much better to collect this evidence throughout the year rather than leave it to the last minute.

To ensure adherence to the Data Protection Act, please remove all third party information or personal data unless explicit consent received from person referenced.

12 Exceptional Circumstances

12.1.1 Discussing difficult issues and giving feedback during line management and practice supervision

12.1.2 Occasionally, individual performance or behaviour may fall short of requirements and it is the role of the line manager to work with the individual to address this. The first step of this process is simply to ensure that the individual is aware of the standards required. Whilst this should normally be achieved through basic induction and training, sometimes requirements change and staff must be made aware of this.

12.1.3 When the need to give feedback arises, there are some guidelines to follow, please see Appendix 3

12.1.4 If the issues remain unresolved, then LSW's Performance Management Policy gives further guidance. By having separate meetings specifically to discuss the performance problem, this allows support mechanisms such as line management and appraisal to continue.

12.1.5 The Disciplinary Policy should be used only where issues of misconduct are identified, either during line management or practice supervision or in some other way.

12.2 Disagreement between line manager and appraisee about the outcome of an appraisal or line management meeting.

12.2.1 If the individual member of staff and their manager/appraiser cannot agree, either one has the right to seek support on an informal local basis from a third party, such as a senior manager, professional lead, someone from the HR department, or a Trade Union representative. This third person may seek further information from the manager and/or the individual member of staff. If the informal process cannot address the problem, then the individual member of staff can take their case through local grievance procedures.

12.3 Gateway Review / Deferral of Pay Progression

11.3.1 There is a normal expectation of progression for every individual within the pay band. If there are issues with individuals developing or applying their knowledge and skills, these must be addressed before the Gateway review. Deferral of pay progression is therefore considered to be exceptional and managers must consult their HR Representative before taking action.

12.3.2 Pay progression cannot be deferred unless there has been prior discussion, which should be recorded, about the knowledge and skills that the individual needs to develop and apply, and the member of staff has been given the support and opportunity to achieve the necessary development.

12.3.3 If the individual has not provided sufficient evidence of applying their knowledge and skills against the KSF outline to pass through a Gateway, and it is agreed that there is a need to undertake further development, the reasons for deferral should be clearly identified and documented together with those aspects of the NHS KSF outline still to be achieved. A date for reviewing this position should be set. Once there is agreement that the individual can meet the NHS KSF post outline, then pay progression resumes from that date.

12.3.4 Exceptional Grounds for Deferral of Pay Progression are set out in the NHS Terms and Conditions of Service Handbook item 6.26 and 6.27 and are reproduced here for ease of reference:

12.3.5 Where significant weaknesses in performance in the current post have been identified and discussed and documented with the staff member concerned and have not been resolved despite opportunities for appropriate training/development and support, exceptionally pay progression may be deferred at any pay point until the problems are resolved”.

12.3.7 Significant weaknesses are those which prevent a staff member from continuing to apply consistently, across a recognised normal workload, the knowledge and skills specified under the (relevant Gateway), without continued line management or practice supervision and support appropriate to that post.”

12.3.8 If the employee is unable to demonstrate the application of the necessary skills for the appropriate gateway due to organisational issues, then the pay increment will not be withheld. Reasons for this might include staffing shortages, financial constraints limiting the training available, inadequate support from manager etc. The reasons must be addressed urgently, the development required must be provided as priority, and the situation must be clearly recorded.

12.3.9 If deferment is confirmed, it is the line manager’s responsibility to ensure that the Payroll and HR department have all necessary details relating to dates of deferment and subsequently when deferment is lifted. Payroll will automatically apply pay increments unless notified of a deferment.

12.3.10 If it is agreed to defer pay progression because the individual has not applied the knowledge and skills detailed in the KSF post outline for that Gateway, then individuals will stay on that incremental point until it is agreed that they are able to do so. Their pay progression will resume from the point when they do apply the requisite knowledge and skills. Pay will not be backdated in these circumstances, as the individual was not able to meet the required level of knowledge and skills.

21.3.11 All deferment decisions will be reviewed by the Head of HR to ensure fairness and consistency across the organisation.

21.3.12 For further information on pay Gateways please refer to KSF Handbook and NHS Terms and Conditions of Service Handbook.

13 Training implications

Training will be provided to managers, as required, on their duties in relation to this policy.

14 Monitoring compliance

- 14.1 Compliance with appraisal is monitored centrally via the Performance Databook, and the production by the training department of a training needs analysis following receipt of Development Needs. Managers are expected to take any action required to ensure all staff are receiving regular appraisals.
- 14.2 The staff survey may also give an indicator of the percentage of staff receiving appraisal and their opinions on the quality of the appraisal meeting.
- 14.3 Compliance with local requirements for line management will be monitored by the relevant Locality Manager / Deputy or other nominated lead.

All policies are required to be electronically signed by the Lead Director. Proof of the electronic signature is stored in the policies database.

The Lead Director approves this document and any attached appendices. For operational policies this will be the Locality Manager.

The Executive signature is subject to the understanding that the policy owner has followed the organisation process for policy Ratification.

Livewell Strategy

Our mission is to support people to stay well in the place and the community in which they live, where they can enjoy the best quality of life.

Wellbeing is our priority:
Healthy people and healthy communities are vital and our long term investment priority.

We are about people not patients:
People, our employees and our communities are at the very heart of everything that we do.

How will we achieve this?

1. Collaboration: We will work together with our system partners to achieve effective, integrated, affordable services. Our commitment is to implement new ways of working to significantly reduce the need for hospital bed-based care, including people with complex needs, by wrapping our services around home and community-based care. This will reduce future demands on acute and primary care services.

2. Co-ordination: We will re-align our service delivery models towards a “best bed is your own bed” approach. We will co-ordinate support and care, ensuring access to community services is available for people young or old, regardless of need e.g. physical and mental health, family, social care, housing, debt or lifestyle.

3. Choice: People we care for will be supported to independently manage their own wellbeing, health and care in the way that they determine will increase their quality of life.

4. Prevention: We will endeavour to support people of all ages, including our workforce, to be as fit, healthy and as independent as possible, for as long as possible.

5. Community: We will create strong networks and partnerships with a wide range of professionals and community groups so that support is responsive and provided within the person’s local community e.g. voluntary organisations, education centres, families, neighbours, carers.

Guidance on Giving Feedback

Firstly Feedback can be positive!

Behaviour	I really appreciated your help with that presentation yesterday.
Outcome	That saved me a lot of time.
Feelings	I feel much more confident about the information.

Choose your time and place

Give feedback at an appropriate time when the receiver is likely to be receptive. Privacy and confidentiality are important – don't criticise staff in front of patients or colleagues.

Feedback is most effective when given immediately or soon after the behaviour has occurred. Don't wait until the next appraisal, line management or practice supervision meeting to mention something which happened months ago.

Focus on behaviour not personality

Describe what the person has actually done rather than your inference about their character or personality. "Your desk is untidy" rather than "you are a disorganised person". People can change their behaviour if they know exactly what it is that needs changing.

Be specific, concise and factual

Get to the point and tell the person exactly what the problem is. Give concrete examples and check your facts first.

Be assertive not aggressive – be clear what changes you would like to see

Follow the simple format in this example:

Behaviour	Your desk is very untidy and you are behind with your filing.
Outcome	This means that colleagues are unable to find things when you are out of the office.
Feelings	I feel annoyed that so much time is being spent searching for things in your office.
Future	I would like you to keep up to date with your filing so that others can find things when you are away.

Discussion about why the problem has arisen, and what support the individual might need to help them improve can then follow.

Allow the person to comment – listen and be open to additional information

People often react badly to criticism, and may well be defensive. The individual may wish to respond with justification for their behaviour. It is important to listen carefully and consider whether their comments are valid. What might seem like "excuses" can be valid issues which need to be addressed.

Allow time for reflection

If the feedback has come as a shock to the individual, then it is reasonable to allow them some time to reflect. Because most people are reluctant to give feedback, individuals may have been doing something “wrong” for a long time. Often people will be reluctant to admit they are “wrong” but the behaviour will often change once the feedback has been given. Allow people to retreat with dignity! What you want is the behaviour change – public admission of failure is not usually necessary! The exception would be where you want the individual to apologise – be aware that it takes a lot more to do this.

Using Questions as feedback

Sometimes a question can be more effective than a comment/opinion.

How about: “What would you do differently next time?” or “How do you think that went?” instead of “You didn’t make a very good job of that and what you should have done was.....”

The person might need a bit of time to think about this, so resist the temptation to jump in too soon with your own analysis or solutions.

Most people want to do a good job and be respected by colleagues.

Give the individual the benefit of the doubt in the first instance.
